

Association of Composite Door Manufacturers welcomes Door-Stop

Door-Stop has been welcomed into the Association of Composite Door Manufacturers (ACDM). “As the UK’s favourite composite door manufacturer it was timely for us to join the body representing the industry,” commented Door-Stop’s Business Unit Director, Martin Dickie.

The ACDM represents and promotes composite doors in new build and home improvement markets and works with technical and consultation bodies involved in door performance standards in Britain and Europe. Members must have achieved PAS 23 and PAS 24 for enhanced security and manufacture to Kitemark BS 8529:2010, as well as signing up to the ACDM’s voluntary Code of Practice.

Martin adds: “Our parent company, Masonite International Corporation, one of the world’s leading door manufacturers, plays an active part in developing the industry and raising standards, so becoming part of the ACDM was a natural expression of this policy.”

The ACDM is also a member of the Glass and Glazing Federation (GGF) and the Construction Products Association (CPA).