PublicSectorBuilding

established 1989 – in partnership with buildingtalk.com

Offering over 30 years of public sector construction knowledge and experience

The market place

Launched in 1989, Public Sector Building (PSB) magazine targets those who are responsible for public sector construction budgets across the UK.

Published six times a year, PSB caters for all reading demographics, offering a combined circulation of 11,500 procurement professionals across both printed and digital publications.

PSB features in-depth news, industry comment, product reviews and case studies, keeping the reader abreast of current public sector construction activity.

Who reads PSB?

Readership breakdown

- Public sector architectural practices 37%
- Education/health authorities 24%
- Housing associations and authorities 22%
- House builders and developers 10%
- Government and public sector agencies 7%

How does PSB deliver response?

By capturing essential information from readers in three ways (online, email and our free reader reply service) advertisers can accurately monitor who is asking for information on their company or product. This means PSB delivers:

- Trackable leads
- Increased web traffic
- Awareness and exposure

When is PSB published?

January, March, May, July, September and November.

What advertising options are available?

PSB offers bespoke solutions such as display advertising, editorial reproductions and advertorials, alongside sponsored email broadcasts.

All advertising options include:

- Reader Response Service. Using a unique number, responses are emailed directly to your preferred email address. This is a free of charge service.
- Duplication on a dedicated e-zine.

Digital Issue, X (Twitter)+ LinkedIn

PSB's fully interactive digital e-zine is both mailed to our email subscribers and distributed a minimum of twice a month to approximately 21,000 Buildingtalk newsletter subscribers and can be downloaded from the website www.buildingtalk.com/psb-magazine-products. The digital issue is shared across PSB's X (formerly Twitter) and Koru Media's LinkedIn social accounts and includes hyperlinks to all advertiser's websites and email addresses. Video content can also be embedded into the digital issue to give your advertising an added dimension.

 PSB manages an X (formerly Twitter) account and PR stories can be tweeted to further enhance your display advertising package @psb_mag

What do PSB advertisers think?

Hambleside Danelaw has worked with Koru Media for a few years now, which has enabled us to reach a wide audience of architects, specifiers, and house builders. They have always been professional and great to work with which has resulted in quality placements for our content.

Bethany McTrustery
Digital Marketing Executive,
Hambleside Danelaw Ltd

Many of my clients are heavily active in the public sector and I find that placing their editorial and commercial messages in Public Sector Building (PSB) magazine stands them in good stead in terms of reaching targeted specifiers. I have worked with the team at Koru Media in excess of ten years now and look forward to continuing this relationship far into the future.
